HELPLESS AS BABY

Down in Mind Unable to Work, and What Helped Her.

Summit Point, W. Va.—Mrs. Anna Belle Emey, of this place, says: "I suffered for 15 years with an awful pain in my right side, caused from womanly trouble, and doctored lots for it, but without success. I suffered so very much, that I became down in mind, and as helpless as a baby. I was in the worst kind of shape. Was unable to do any work. I began taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and got relief from the very first dose. By the time I had taken 12 bottles, my health was completely restored. I am now 48 years old, but feel as good as I did when only 16.

Cardui certainly saved me from losing my mind, and I feel it my duty to speak in its favor. I wish I had some power over poor, suffering women, and could make them know the good it would do them."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, it will certainly be worth your while to give Cardui a trial. It has been helping weak women for more than 50 years, and will help you, too.

Try Cardui. Your druggist sells it.

Vestees and Collars in Fall Styles

TO make sure of a bit of white next the face is to be sure of added becomingness in coat or gown. Vestees and collars in one, or collars alone, are the dominating features in fall neckwear, and they are shown in many fabrics and a still greater number of designs.

Nearly all of these smart accessories are made of washable fabrics, although fragile chiffons and silk muslins and the finest of silk crepes are utilized to make the short-lived glory of some of them. But crisp freshness and immaculate cleanliness belong to the vestee and collar; are the essential reasons for their existence, in fact, so that all the finest and sheerest of wash fabrics are employed in their making. These include organdie, swiss, thin lawns, swiss embroidery, batiste, mulls, nets, voiles and laces. The choice is wide enough.

Collars and vestees made the firmer weaves in wash fabrics are finished with hemstitching and often decorated with tucks. Insertions and narrow edgings of fine lace or the finest embroideries are used on them.

The daintiest of these neck pieces are prettily ornamented with sprays of embroidery. Narrow plaited frills make possible a great variety in decoration. Hemstitching, embroidered dots, and small pearl or covered buttons are additional factors that go to make up the endless variety one finds in neckwear.

Roll-over collars are leaders in popularity, combined either with long vestees or short dickies. Severe designs, like that shown in the picture given here, of sheer organdie, are charmingly delicate. A plain roll-over collar to which net ties are attached is decorated with tiny black pearl buttons and makes a stunning finish for a tailored gown.

Vestees and roll-over collars of pique are compelling attention. Recently dress sets showing collar and cuffs to match, or collar, vestee and cuffs, proclaim the revival of an old but fine style, well worthy of a new vogue.

There is literally no end to the number of designs in neckwear. With so many fabrics available and a free field for the play of fancy in a world of inexpensive materials we are likely to find new things every day.

Dog's Privilege Restricted.

That the law no longer concedes that a dog is entitled to one bite is held in Legault vs. Malacker before the supreme court of Wisconsin, in which a father sued for damages for the death of his son, who died from wounds caused by the defendant's dog. The trial court sustained a demurrer to the complaint, but in reversing the decision the supreme court said: "Where a complaint alleges that a dog attacked and wounded a person who at the time was where he might lawfully be and in the exercise of ordinary care it is unnecessary to go further and allege that the dog was vicious or mischievous. Such a dog is necessarily vicious, and a separate allegation to that effect is unnecessary. The law no longer allows a dog his first bite, as was said to be the case before the passage of the law abolishing proof of scienter."

Age of Talent.

According to some recent compiled statistics, the most chemical and medical discoveries have been made by men of forty years of age. Forty-four is the age at which a poet may expect to do his best work; soldiers and explorers tend to distinguish themselves most at the age of forty-seven; at forty-eight years of age the composers and actors are at the summit of their powers; politicians excel at fifty-two years, philosophers at fifty-four and humorists at fifty-six. These figures preach patience to the young

A Great Relief.

"Say, old man, you're looking a hundred per cent better than you did a year ago." "I was worrying about my debts then." "All paid now, eh?" "No; but they have grown so that I know there is no use trying to pay them. I tell you it's a great load off my mind."

Extreme of Laziness.

"Noodles is the laziest man I know. He has an invention fixed so that by merely pulling a wire in bed he can light the fire; but that doesn't seem to improve matters." "Why not?" "He's too lazy to pull the wire."

ENGLAND GETS WORK OF ART

"Old Master" Said to Have Been Picked Up by Chance at Sale of Continental Collection.

An "Old Master" was recently acquired by an English art lover from a continental collection. That is, indeed, a so rare event, at a time when English owners of precious works tumble over each other in their eagerness to unload their treasures in return for American gold, that Mr. Herbert Cook's capture of the famous Venetian portrait of Caterina Cornaro, queen of Cyprus, from the Crespi collection in Milan, cannot fail to cause widespread satisfaction in the tight little island. The picture has been variously attributed to Giorgione, to Titian, to Licio, and to other Venetian masters. The best expert opinion is now divided between the two former attributions, Mr. Berenson having declared in favor of Titian, and Mr. Cook himself of Giorgione. But these differences of opinion cannot affect the fact that the picture is one of the triumphs of the finest period of Venetian art. It bears on a parapet an inscription of which only the letters "T. V." (Titiano Vecelli) can be distinguished. Until this inscription can be proved a forgery the picture may safely be assumed to be an early work by the great Titian, when he was still under the influence of Giorgione.
